In the summer of 87 the Journalism II staff began planning and working a yearbook that would highlight the memories of the year at CCHS. Though the resources were limited, the staff knew they had to produce one of the best yearbooks ever to depict the memories of "our year."

The journalism staff is indebted to many who contributed their time and effort in helping to complete the project. They are: Marilyn Greene, The Corrigan Times, The Polk County Enterprise, the faculty administration of each school, and last but not least Carrel Reed, the advisor.

I personally would like to thank the staff. Without their hard work and talent the yearbook would have never been. I would also like to thank the advisor, Carrel Reed, for her time and patience, and Shelley Braswell, the lay-out editor, for her time and hard work. She played an essential role in producing this annual.

Our crop takes 35 years to grow.

That's why since the 1950's we have performed research to find several genetically superior tree strains and have planted our own seed orchards.

Over such a long term growing period, one super tree strain could be devastated by any number of diseases, insect or weather-related disasters such as drought.

The good news is that these orchards have already produced growth gains of 15 to 25 percent, and we hope for up to 35 percent in the future.

This is one way, through sound management practices, we try to ensure an economically stronger company and East Texas community in the future.
